

Part D

The code used to produce these graphs are written in partD.py and can be executed through the command: `python partD.py` . Running this, it will prompt you for which graph you would like to see.

The graphs produced are as follows:

As you can see from these graphs, they eventually drastically favor throughput of one connection over the other, thereby making them unfair.